

Nomination Form

Anna Quindlen Award for Excellence in Journalism in Behalf of Children and Families

The nominee should be a reporter, journalist, news team, or news organization that has covered child welfare-related issues in a manner that has advanced the public's understanding of vulnerable children and families in America in 2009. CWLA will consider work that highlights a major problem or challenge that children and families face, or that in some way promotes positive change for children and families. The nominee should have produced a body of work that covers relevant issues during the 2009 calendar year.
